THE LIFE IN LONDON

Tim and Mary are Americans. They left New York for London five years ago. Tim works for a bank and Mary is a nurse in a big hospital in the city. What do they like best? Mary speaks for both of them. "We love London, there's always something interesting to do. The parks, museums and theatres are great. We like to go walking in the country at weekends so we drive to Essex early on Sunday morning and walk there all day." When they were asked why they came to London, Tim said: "Mary got a job here and I followed her. I didn't work for the first three months. I was looking for a flat to buy, and looking after things at home. I started my job the day after we moved to this flat. Of course, we speak the language, but we had some problems at first. Just small things. I like the different words for food - and the different British accents can be difficult to understand."
